

Safe Firearm Storage: You Have Options

If you own a gun, it's your responsibility to safely secure it. There are a range of affordable and effective options to meet your individual needs.

Cable Lock. A cable lock threads through the barrel or action of a firearm to prevent someone else from firing it.

Gun Case. A gun case is a safe place to secure your firearms at home and beyond. The case can also protect your firearms from damage.

Gun Safe. A gun safe is the most secure choice for locking up your firearm. Gun safes come with a variety of lock options, including electronic and biometric locks.

Lockbox. A lockbox can be portable or bolted down for additional security. There are also options designed specifically for use in vehicles.

Trigger Lock. A trigger lock fits easily over the trigger guard of a firearm to prevent the trigger from being pulled.

Keep It Secure

Lock your firearm every single time. Follow these tips to keep your firearm secure:

- If your lock uses a combination or code, choose one that can't be easily guessed by children or other unauthorized users.
- If your lock requires a key, make sure you hide the key someplace it can't easily be found.
- Lock your firearm regardless of whether it's in your home or in your vehicle.
- Consider storing ammunition separately.
